During the month of October the peach room friends enjoy their sports theme. They made a baseball and bat craft to go with their theme. During their transportation week they made paper plate cars and shadow trains. They then moved on and read many Laura Numeroff books and watched the movie, If You Give A Mouse A Cookie. To end the month of October the class painted pumpkins and celebrated Halloween by trick or treating throughout the center. In November the rooms weekly themes will be fall, Thanksgiving, and chica chica boom boom.

In October the yellow room went on a walk to find leaves that had fallen off the trees. They painted pumpkins and were excited to take them home to mom and dad. The children did a lot of cute Halloween decorations for their room. In November the class will be learning about dinosaurs, Thanksgiving, and opposites. They will have a lot of art projects to bring home, so please check cubbies

In October the green room friends went on a great walk and found lots of different kinds of leaves. The class learned about why leaves change color and what colors maple, oak, and cotton wood leaves change to in the fall. For Halloween the class made many decorations. Some were scary spiders and cats, and some were silly like the scarecrow, pumpkins, and candy corn guy. The class sang songs about fall leaves and five little pumpkins on a windy, windy night. The children were very excited to wear their costumes and say the magic candy words “trick or treat”. During the month of November the class will learn about the first Thanksgiving, Pilgrims, and Native Americans. The class will talk about and do activities that relate to being thankful, liking freedom, family, and other things they enjoy everyday.

Going to the fire station was one of the many fun things that the blue room friends did during the month of October. While at the fire station the children got to meet the fire rescue dog “Private!” During their fire safety week they also had a chance to practice a real fire drill. The class enjoyed wearing their costumes and going around from room to room trick or treating. In November the class looks forward to having their pajama day. They also look forward to Thanksgiving and doing many projects to decorate the room. They will also be doing a whole week on their favorite things!
